Massey, John D. Houses Searched?

Indicates 'Lack of Understanding'

MP Assails Ike's Bodyguards

OTTAWA (CP)—H. W. Herridge, CCF Commons member for Kootenay West, Tuesday night accused United States secret service agents of transgressing the "rights and usages" of the Canadian people.

"We are deeply disturbed about this," Mr. Herridge said in the Commons.

He referred to published reports that U.S. secret service men who preceded President Eisenhower to Ottawa searched Government House, residence of Governor-General Massey, and the residence of Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The president has been visiting in both places.

Mr. Herridge's accusation was greeted by an occasional catcall from government benches. Throughout his speech, Progressive Conservative members did not appear to take kindly to his words.

At the end, Richard A. Bell (PC, Carleton) yelled out "outrageous mischief," obviously referring to Mr. Herridge's protest.

Mr. Herridge said the reports, if they are true, indicate "a lack of understanding of Canadians."

It showed a lack of confidence, on the part of the U.S. agents, in the ability of the RCMP to ensure security during Eisenhower's visit in Ottawa.

Replying to the odd jeer and catcall from Conservative benches, Mr. Herridge said the House would be amazed at the number of government supporters who think as he does.

"If these reports are true," Mr. Herridge said, "we consider these actions as a gross indignity on the representative of Her Majesty and the prime minister of this country."

The reports indicated Mr. Diefenbaker "failed" to take the firm stand the Commons could expect from him in view of his past statements about the sovereignty of Canada.

He said the CCF trusts the matter will be investigated by the government and the necessary action taken to preserve the rights of Canadians.

Obsolete Slogan 'Forward Look'

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson asked about this slogan on a Defence Research Board office wall:

"If it works, it's obsolete."

Defence Minister Pearkes, with an almost-straight face, replied that possibly it was an indication of DRB scientists' forward look.

More Strike Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Starr said Tuesday night he has arranged a meeting for Thursday in Ottawa with CPR President N. R. Crump and officers of the Seafarers' International Union (CLC) that has tied up the railway's West Coast fleet since May 16.

He told a reporter he will confer with Mr. Crump and SIU officers—including west coast representatives of the union—in his office here at 7 a.m. (PDT) Thursday.

Reporting on an unsuccessful meeting with them held here Monday, he reiterated a previous public announcement that they were unable to agree on a formula for settlement of the strike.

British Shakeup Coming

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told parliament yesterday that his government will soon announce a large-scale reorganization of British defence forces.

Macmillan told the House of Commons he hoped to make the announcement "within the next week or so."

The Prime Minister gave no indication of what the reorganization would involve. British newspapers have speculated in the past week that defence Minister Duncan Sandys and Admiral Earl Mountbatten — now First Sea Lord—might become "joint dictators" of Britain's defence.

Anyone Like to Eat Crow?

Dishing up a fine dish of crow — for critics to eat — were Premier Bennett and Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi after the Malahat Highway opening ceremonies last night. For years the provincial government was criticized over the condition of the scenic highway. Now, with the beautiful road completed, it's the government's turn to laugh. Sommers Case Judge:

'There'll Be a Trial'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The protracted and complicated Sommers bribery - conspiracy trial was put off again Tuesday until today but the presiding jurist commented that in any event "there is going to be a trial."

The comment by 60-year-old Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson in the 37th day of the case was taken to mean that he is not prepared to throw out all the 25 counts against the eight accused, including former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers.

The justice, who at one point Tuesday remarked that the proceedings had developed into a judicial "nightmare," said he will decide today whether to go on this week or adjourn until Monday.

The judge's considerations of some dismissal motions are complicated by the fact that on bribery Sommers is named only as a receiver and all others only as givers. Dismissal of some of the "receiving" charges without dismissal of some of the opposite "giving" charges would create a judicial anomaly.

Gas Warfare Defence Soon

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is having some success in devising defensive measures against gas and germ warfare, Dr. G. S. Field, chief scientist of the Defence Research Board, said in a statement made public yesterday.

Beery Hostage Happy But Admiral Isn't

GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP) —The U.S. admiral who's trying to get his 30 kidnapped men out of Cuban rebel hands disclosed Tuesday one apparently is in no hurry to get back.

But he's better change his mind. The admiral is getting impatient.

The story came out during a break in efforts to free the 34 North Americans still held in the jungle.

Rear-Admiral R. B. Ellis, commander of the U.S. Navy's Guantanamo base, told reporters about the happy hostage.

Airman T. R. Mosness of Ames, Iowa, "seems to be enjoying life and thinks it's fun to be out drinking beer and treated like a guest," Ellis snapped.

U.S. Airmen:

Shot Down By Jets

WIESBADEN, Germany (UPI)—Nine grim and exhausted U.S. airmen returned from 11 days Soviet captivity, said yesterday Soviet jet fighters shot down their off-course, unarmed transport plane in flames and kept firing even after five of the crewmen bailed out.

The four men who rode the plane down to a flaming landing at a makeshift airstrip 75 miles from Lake Sevan in Soviet Armenia, leaped clear moments before the big C-118 transport exploded.

Saanich Police Win Apology

By DAVID FRANCIS

Official chaperone at an all-night graduation party publicly apologized before the Saanich police commission last night for accusing Saanich police of "crudeness" in handling a road check that resulted in 16 charges being laid against youths.

After hearing testimony from police involved and a resident of the Strawberry Vale Hall area, where the party was held, Coun. George Austin, commission chairman, stated:

"I think you should publicly announce an apology to the Saanich police."

Michael Schneider, 1080 Roslyn Road, the chaperone, replied: "I will apologize to everyone of them if they felt I was running down their character, because I wasn't."

He told The Colonist just after the June 29 Mount View High School party that Saanich police "acted like they were out of a grade B movie," and praised the way the RCMP checked the cars for liquor.

In testifying to the commission, Mr. Schneider quoted Det. Robin Stewart as saying to him: "Who is this guy? I see his face in front of me every time I look around."

On finding out, the sergeant ordered hi mto return to the hall and his chaperoning duties, Mr. Schneider said.

"I had to check with the RCMP that I was allowed on the road, and I was."

Bottles Flying Everywhere

Det. Stewart told the commission, "In my opinion Mr. Schneider attempted to cause trouble at the road block."

Mr. Schneider came to each car as it was stopped and spoke to the occupants, and could have been charged with resisting or wilfully obstructing a police officer in carrying out his duties, Det. Stewart said.

The Saanich police detective testified that bottles were "flying everywhere" from some of the cars, and that Mr. Schneider might have been hit by the bottles or run over.

"And then we would have been up for more criticism."

Det. Stewart said he was unable to number the bottles confiscated in checking about 120 cars, but that they filled an RCMP police sedan. "There was just room for the driver."

One 16-year-old girl was "so drunk she could hardly stand up," he continued.

Another youth had three "mickeys" of liquor in his pockets, and two high school students charged with being minors in possession of liquor had four "mickeys" between them.

Another 13-ounce bottle was found in a record player held by a young girl, another Saanich police officer said.

Most of the cars stopped had liquor in them and most belonged to high school students, he said.

A resident in the area of the hall testified that a number of youths in a car had assaulted a boy friend of his daughter's before police set up their road block.

The youths in the car, who said they were going to the party, hit, kicked and chased his daughter's friend on his property, he stated.

The man said he grabbed a

Surprise Move At Ottawa Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Diefenbaker sharpened interest in their informal talks with the surprise disclosure Tuesday that they are considering establishment of a joint cabinet committee on defence.

Disclosure of this new and unexpected element came as the two leaders opened three days of face-to-face discussions with a general review of the world situation, particularly the West's defensive position.

NO DETAILS

Word of the possible Canada-U.S. cabinet defence committee was dropped by two briefing officers who immediately said they knew no details.

Meanwhile, high Canadian defence officials said Canada would welcome the creation of such a committee.

JOINT DEFENCE

In an initial 90-minute conference, the two leaders discussed joint Canada-U.S. defence co-operation, both for North America and in their common NATO commitments.

On the domestic side, economic problems between the two countries were discussed.

CABINET MEMBERS

Sitting in with the president and the prime minister were U.S. State Secretary Dulles, Canada's External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith, U.S. Ambassador Livington T. Merchant, and Norman Robertson, Canadian ambassador in Washington.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower had a chicken dinner at Government House last night with Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker.

ECONOMIC TEAM

Mr. Dulles and Mr. Smith continue their talks on Canada-U.S. problems today, when Mr. Smith will be joined by Finance Minister Fleming, Trade Minister Churchill and Agriculture Minister Harkness.

Make-up of the Canadian team indicated largely economic discussions.

PRIVATE CHAT

Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Diefenbaker hold their next formal session Thursday but hope to get together privately.

President Eisenhower's address to both Houses of Parliament today is expected to deal with Canadian-U.S. problems, perhaps including the American surplus wheat disposal program and import restrictions on Canadian oil.

Trade with Red China was one of the topics discussed in the first talks, but the two briefing officers were unable to say which side brought it up.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

PEOPLE who marry for money, or zealously cultivate the friendship of their bosses, are often subject to undeserved "hatred, contempt and ridicule."

Resentment against such people is often based on the idea that they are phonies, pretending to show a regard which they really do not feel.

In fact, however, they are often in earnest. The girl isn't really feigning love for the rich man. Surrounded by comforts, and the promise of further comforts, she feels a sense of well-being that helps love to flourish. It is the genuine article.

Very likely, she loves the man and his wealth too. If it hadn't been for the money, she would not have noticed him at all. There is no use blaming her for being that kind of person, any more than you blame a television set for not bringing in radio signals.

The person who cultivates the friendship of his boss by way of the golf course or the bridge table should not be condemned too hastily.

Often as not, his behavior has little to do with a calculated policy of self-advancement. It just comes naturally. The person feels truly that he belongs with the upper echelons of the company or government department where he works, and he is at ease there.

Sometimes, indeed, his former boss may fall from favor, or be transferred to another department where he can't do the employee any good. Soon those friendly rounds of golf or bridge games begin to taper off and after a while they cease.

Later the employee finds a new golfing and bridge opponent, his new boss. It is idle to condemn him for such a change of loyalty. He may not even be aware what he has done.

On the other hand, there are persons who do such things on purpose. Some people marry for money or cultivate the friendship of bosses, as part of a carefully devised plan. But I think such persons are comparatively few.

There are also persons who over-compensate: Girls who carefully avoid rich bachelors, and employees who will do anything rather than speak a civil word to their bosses.

The ideal is to treat everyone with warmth and courtesy, whether they are executives, heiresses or tramps. But I don't know how many people reach the ideal, or try for it, in this selfish world.

Canada Hits 17,000,000

B.C. Growth Paces Nation

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's population has passed the 17,000,000 mark.

The bureau of statistics said yesterday in its annual census estimate that the population at June 1 stood at 17,048,000, an increase of 459,000 or 2.8 per cent over the figure of 16,589,000 at the corresponding date last year.

The 12-month increase was below the record gain of 508,000 from June 1, 1956, to June 1, 1957. This was due to decreased immigration and an estimated rise in emigration which outweighed an increase of about 24,000 in natural increase—excess of births over death.

However, the year's increase was well above the average increase of 414,000 for the five previous years between the censuses of 1951 and 1956.

The population gain the two years since the June 1, 1956, census of 16,081,000 was just 33,000 short of 1,000,00.

All provinces registered population gains, including Saskatchewan which had a small decline between June 1, 1956, and June 1, 1957.

Saskatchewan's population at June 1 of this year was estimated at 888,000, up 9,000 or one per cent in the year. In the previous year, it had dropped by 2,000.

British Columbia had third largest numerical gain with a growth of 57,000 to 1,544,000 from 1,487,000. The B.C. percentage gain was 3.8, the largest among the provinces.

Ontario led the provinces with an increase of 181,000 to 5,803,000 from 5,622,000, a rise of 3.2 per cent. Quebec recorded the second biggest gain, rising by 126,000 or 2.6 per cent to 4,884,000 from 4,758,000.

Trading in Company Shares

Ontario Charges Gas Firm Officials

TORONTO (CP) — Charges against Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company Limited, three of its officers and one former officer were laid Tuesday by the Ontario Securities Commission.

The charges involve trading in the company's shares.

Three provincial cabinet ministers have resigned in the Northern Ontario controversy amid disclosures that they held shares in the company.

13 CHARGES

Five informations were sworn out by the commission Tuesday in Toronto magistrate's court. They covered 13 charges—three against the company; four against its president, R. K. Farris of Vancouver; four against its vice-president, C. Spencer Clark of Seattle, Wash.; one against Herbert L. Mackenzie of Calgary a former officer; and one against N. C. Deans of Toronto, a director.

Mr. Mackenzie was not further identified but a company spokesman said he was brought in as Northern Ontario's treasurer during its formative stages, serving without pay. He resigned in 1956.

TRADED SHARES

The informations allege:

1. That Farris and Clark were "knowingly responsible" for trading by Northern Ontario Natural Gas in its own account in securities issued by an industrial company;

2. That the company traded on its own account in securities without first filing a prospectus and obtaining a receipt (Farris and Clark were included in this information);

3. That Farris, Clark and Deans failed to insure that the company kept proper account books and records;

4. That Mackenzie failed to keep proper account books and records;

5. That Farris and Clark caused 14,000 shares of the company to be issued to Continental Investment Corporation Limited in the name of Convesco at $2.50 a share and that they caused 4,000 shares to be issued to F. E. Shaw.

'Go Home Ike, John' Say Reds

VANCOUVER (CP) — Nine Communists paraded here yesterday protesting the visit of President Eisenhower and State Secretary John Foster Dulles to Ottawa.

They picketed the Marine Building where the U.S. Consul-General has an office. The demonstration was organized by the women's committee of the Labor-Progressive party.

The pickets carried placards inscribed "John, don't follow Dulles," "Dulles go home and take your H-planes with you," "Canadian children must grow up in a world of peace," and "No U.S. bases on Canadian soil."

A paper bag filled with water was dropped from a window of the skyscraper, missing one of the women demonstrators by inches.

'Baby's Cry' Lures Victim

VANCOUVER (CP) — A thug imitated a baby's cry Monday night, lured a 16-year-old girl into an alley and robbed her.

"I fooled you, didn't I," the man said. He then struck her and took her purse. The victim fled to her home after the robbery.

Commissioner G. Stanley Eden asked Mr. Schneider if he did not think he was "sticking your neck out" when he undertook to chaperone 150 persons of whom he had not personal knowledge.

Mr. Schneider said he had given the graduating class the "benefit of the doubt" and that the president of the student council had promised him that no liquor would be brought to the dance.

He added that he was "appalled" when he heard that two parents actually bought a "mickey" for their children.

Solicitor Lloyd-McKenzie pointed out that these all-night graduation parties "have been of very great concern to the law-enforcement agencies because of their consumption of liquor."

He read a form from the school board disclaiming responsibility for parties after midnight and the official graduation party, which students had to have signed by their parents.

Audit of Audets

Roof Over Heads But Still No Job

Gerard Audet, father of seven children, is still without a job, but thanks to the generosity of many Victorians, he and his family have a home.

The Audets moved into their home at 3184 Mars Street before it was completed, in violation of city building bylaws, and were threatened with eviction.

Magistrate H. C. Hall, however, gave Mr. Audet time to complete his home, and with much aid from Victorians, the job was done by deadline in April.

F. J. Knudsen, 140 Olive Street, who administered a fund to assist the Audets, yesterday gave a public accounting.

Total cash donated amounted to $1,159.26 and was spent as follows: fire insurance, $39.10; building supplies, $730.91; plasterers, $10.38; furnace, $273; furnace material, $67.07 and iron stair railing, $38.85.

There were also large donations of work and material, and special discounts.

The house is not quite complete, but is fit for occupancy and can be completed when Mr. Audet gets a job, Mr. Knudsen said. Mr. Audet has two trades, carpentry and pipefitting.

Mr. Knudsen asked anyone who can offer a job to call him at 3-8791.

Tour Cancelled

Acute Sinus Hits Queen

LONDON (AP)—The Queen is suffering from an acute sinus attack accompanied by a fever, Buckingham Palace said yesterday. The illness has forced her to cancel a tour in Scotland and return here, the announcement added.

It said she was taken ill aboard the royal train Monday night after a busy day of official engagements in the Renfrewshire area of Scotland. Plans were made immediately for her to return here. She and Prince Philip had planned to return to London last night by air.

PHILIP REMAINS

Philip remained in Scotland to complete the visit.

The Queen, 32, has suffered a series of severe colds in recent months. In May she was forced to remain indoors for a week and she spent a number of days in bed.

She suffered what was called a feverish chill and was ordered by her doctor to stay indoors for several days while at the royal country estate at Sandringham in January.

CONFINED WITH COLD

In December she was confined to Buckingham Palace briefly with a cold.

Last August she was treated for a cold complicated by a throat infection.

Slim 'Mamie' Shuns Sack

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower has arrived in Ottawa with a new look.

She is 10 pounds slimmer than she was last winter and has made a slight concession to the "new look" by wearing colored hose.

However, she continues to shun the "sack look" for the more easy-to-wear natural line.

ROBERT HUGHES
. . . "in" hospital

'Fattest Man' Seriously Ill

BREMEN, Ind. (AP)—Robert Earl Hughes, possibly the fattest man in the world, lay seriously ill yesterday in a makeshift trailer home parked outside Bremen Community Hospital.

The 32-year-old carnival attraction claimed a weight of 1,041 pounds. He has a 122-inch waist and measures 40 inches around each upper arm.

Hughes' dimensions baffled hospital attendants when he was brought to them Sunday suffering from a heart condition, a congested chest, and possibly measles.

No hospital bed would support his weight and rough measurements indicated he couldn't be taken through the doors of the rooms.

There was nothing to do but leave Hughes in his trailer home, semi-reclining on a combination bed-chair built of heavy timber. Oxygen tanks were installed in the trailer and nurses climbed a ladder to attend the man.

Lower Rivers Cause Concern

EDMONTON (CP)—Northern shipping companies are watching with concern the levels of the MacKenzie and Liard Rivers, both of which are lower than normal this summer.

Already, the low water has forced cancellation of plans to ship oil drilling equipment up the Liard River to a camp established by Shell Oil Ltd.

'Start Railway Now'

Ottawa is being asked for "immediate action" on the construction of a new railroad from northern Alberta to the Northwest Territories, Premier Bennett said yesterday.

"This project is not only important to the north but to the whole Dominion," he added.

The premier said he felt a start should be made on the railroad by this fall.

Consumers prefer to buy B.C.-grown tomatoes in bulk rather than packaged in tubes, an agriculture department survey has shown.

Agriculture Minister Newton P. Steacy said yesterday that the survey showed "conclusively" that "while B.C. consumers willingly pay more for the B.C. product in open baskets or in bulk than they will pay for imported tomatoes, they are not inclined to pay more when the same B.C. tomatoes are packed in tubes."

"The average shopper has become accustomed to regarding all tubed tomatoes as imported," said Mr. Steacy.

Sincerely Welcome

THE three-day visit of President Eisenhower and Mr. Dulles to Canada for informal talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the administration at Ottawa renews a custom which for too long had lapsed. The gesture is both friendly and generous in the length of the call and it will be warmly regarded throughout the Dominion, without thought of whatever mutual trading or other advantages may arise as a result of deliberations at a high, if informal, level. The visit will give two national leaders a person-to-person contact of more value than all of the "conferences" in the world. The discussion between the respective state secretaries also can be intimate, friendly and frank.

Canadians as a general rule are much better posted about economic, living and political conditions in the United States than can often be said per contra. Along the vast mutual border in more than a century of peace there has been little suspicion or acrimony. Although Canada and the United States have some differences in trade and other matters now these can certainly be thrashed out in an open-faced way, without irritation or heat. That is the way the two countries have argued their water levels, fishing rights, smoke nuisance and every other point of difference across the common border for 10 decades. It is still the best way. The time may have come for franker and fuller discussions on mutual trade exchanges and kindred matters, but the atmosphere of the discussion can be frankness itself. It is so when friends meet.

Misplaced Compassion

BEHIND the emotionalism engendered by the separation of a few Doukhobor children from their parents there is a simple set of facts. If sympathizers would take the trouble to examine them they should see that the provincial government is not a cold-blooded monster devoid of feeling for the chronically weeping mothers but a foster parent unwillingly thrust into the responsibility of giving the children the upbringing which their own parents deny them.

The members of the fanatical Sons of Freedom sect could have their children back any time they liked, simply by agreeing to behave like Canadian citizens, which they are by birth and domicile but not in spirit. The children are held as wards of the Province for one reason only: that their parents will not allow them to go to school, and resort to violence and indecent demonstrations whenever the authorities attempt to intercede.

The laws of British Columbia, representing the wishes of its entire population with the exception of this handful of militant misfits, say that all children between the set age limits shall be educated to approved standards. For this it is not necessary to send them to the public schools so long as the departmental requirements are satisfied. The Freedomites have consistently refused either to send their children to school or to provide proper education elsewhere, preferring to bring them up in academic and social ignorance. They proclaim some nonsense about the B.C. schools teaching the young to go to war.

Maybe the law is wrong, though a million British Columbia adults don't seem to think so; and it has regulated education for a long, long time. Right or wrong, it is there. What sort of government would or could permit one small group of fanatics to flout it? What sort of state would society degenerate into if other groups decided they didn't like other laws and wouldn't obey them? What if the Sons of Freedom decided not to register the motor cars they so dearly love, or observe the rules of the road, or the laws respecting property? Would the sob-sisters support them in that sort of lawlessness?

The wailing mothers brought this on themselves—and their hapless children—and they could end it just as quickly. It is unfortunate that the separation has to continue through the school holidays, but that too is their own fault entirely, and such public compassion as has been aroused is misplaced.

The children are not wards of the government for the duration of the school term but until their parents accept the responsibilities of citizenship. When the authorities moved to take the children into protective custody to make education possible the parents used every means possible to frustrate them, hiding the poor, bewildered little things in the hills and forests. It would be completely impractical to return the children while school is out, for the authorities probably would be unable to find them again when the holidays end. And so another generation of young Canadians would, through their parents' neglect, grow up in backwoods ignorance.

A Petulant Complaint

MR. LESTER PEARSON complained in Parliament this week that Prime Minister Diefenbaker's "vision" of a bigger and better Canada was stolen from the Liberal Party. He may easily be correct. All parties are guilty of co-opting for their own ideas that have been put forth by others, and have been for generations. Only they never admit to the offence—if adoption of a good idea can be considered an offence—lest their prestige be dulled. Instead they contrive to give the borrowing a different slant and present it as something new.

There would be no need for camouflage if political parties put the welfare of the nation before party interests. It is probably too much to expect nevertheless any party should be glad when its suggestions are followed on any matter that will benefit the country. Unfortunately this runs counter to established, but anomalous, political custom. Opposition groups like to criticize the ruling administration and offer advice yet complain petulantly if the latter does what they suggest. It is then accused of "stealing" an idea.

Where Mr. Pearson is unwise in the present instance is in showing up his own party. He says that the Diefenbaker program of a revived dynamic for Canada, which he concedes helped materially to give the Conservatives a sweeping majority last March, was adapted from two briefs presented to the Gordon commission three years ago by a government department.

Well, Mr. Pearson's party was in power three years ago and either didn't read the briefs or gave them no further attention after they were presented. If the ideas contained therein were good now they were equally good then, but the Liberals lacked the "vision" they recognize too late as having been desirable. It was in fact the obvious running down of Liberal enterprise that led to their smarting defeat at the polls.

The opposition leader should have kept his complaint under wraps. He makes it sound as though he objects to a refreshed and vigorous Canada unless it is under his own party aegis.

Interpreting the News

Sporadic Action in Lebanon

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

A CHANGE at once radical and subtle has come about in the international political aspect of the civil war in Lebanon.

Dag Hammarskjold, secretary-general of the United Nations, keynoted the new attitude by displaying a mystifying optimism after an on-the-spot study.

At the same time, State Secretary Dulles of the United States has been talking about the situation in happier terms. Why the switch?

It doesn't seem likely that Lebanese President Camille Chamoun, who has repeatedly stressed the war's international dangers, could have given Hammarskjold heart-warming news.

But the secretary-general also visited the United Arab Republic's President Nasser in Cairo, and perhaps it was there he found reason to hope. Perhaps Nasser decided it was time to begin easing the pressure on Lebanon. At any rate, he left immediately afterward for a scheduled visit to Yugoslavia.

Apparently the British foreign office is not going all the way in the mood of optimism. It reiterated the belief that the U.A.A.R., through its Syrian province, has intervened seriously on the side of the Lebanese rebels.

Western sources describe as inconclusive a report by UN observers that they have been unable to confirm such intervention. The observers were not allowed to visit certain critical border areas.

Meanwhile, guns continue to fire around Beirut and elsewhere. The conflict — now in its ninth week — is conducted loosely, sporadically, with an appearance of incredible cynicism among leaders.

Chamoun, head of the pro-Western government since 1952, has openly renounced plans to seek a second term, the issue that started the revolt in the first place. But he insists the rebels must be crushed.

Among those named as possible successors to Chamoun are the army chief of staff, Gen. Faud Chehab, and Alfred Naccache, president from 1941 until 1943 when Lebanon won independence from France.

Even some of the rebel chiefs fighting Chehab are said to want him as president. The general has shown a canny reluctance to commit his 9,000-man army into full battle against the rebels.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT WAS intriguing to read as soon as one got home about the London trooper who electrified the world and broke century-old protocol by exploding a vocal protest at a professional guide.

For, of course, he might be the mounted sentry we saw three weeks ago as we drove along Whitehall. If so I touch my cap in salute. Guardsmen are not supposed to move a muscle let alone speak, but they have my sympathy. It must be hard to keep still when all about one are gawkers making inane remarks, or, even, trying to provoke a reply.

At a musical revue we saw in Glasgow one of Stanley Baxter's skits touched on this theme. He portrayed a Buckingham Palace sentry pursued by tuft-hunters, the climax coming when an American tourist persuaded him to sell the medal on his manly chest!

Off stage no guardsman would trade his medals, although Baxter wasn't bereft because he had half-a-dozen duplicates cached in his sentry-box. But even a guardsman, as the London trooper made evident, can stand only so much.

In the instance in question the trooper listened to the quality of his uniform being denigrated and, in addition, history being falsified. That the guide was an ex-army officer merely magnified the offence. He should have known better.

Guides so often should. In our sojourn overseas we heard quite a few guides and couriers at one place or another. Some of them certainly got their facts mixed and it took an effort to remain silent when one knew history was being turned upside down.

A good guide puts on a show, of course. One courier we heard recounting the story of the Royal Mile was nothing short of superb, both in diction and dramatic presentation. He should have been on the stage instead of driving a bus. He didn't slip up on a date, either.

Some others fell far below his standard. One I can recall could have had a bus driven through the gaps in his grammar and his socialist tinge made his comments suspect. I suppose every touring bus driver can't be an expert but this chap was no adornment to the town he sought to describe.

On the other hand a picturesque account of things covers a multitude of mistakes, for the sake of entertainment. It did make one's ears pop however to hear that Jane Welsh was born in the sixteenth century when the man she married wasn't born until the eighteenth, and that John Knox married at 70 for the second time when he died at the age of 67 or possibly even 59.

One hasn't any right to expect tourist guides to be professors of history, nevertheless, and so the wise visitor is he who accepts quietly what the courier has to say and amends it in the light of his own knowledge. A trooper on horseback in Whitehall, however, has every reason to expect that a two-war army captain should know his stuff, especially about the Horse Guards.

Happily the trooper wasn't punished for speaking out of turn, which is almost as big a break with tradition as his own indiscretion.

My sympathies are now with professional guides, however. They are sure in future to approach Whitehall sentries full of fear lest some grandiose spiel is interrupted by a blunt, "You're a liar!"

And what a loss of face that would entail, not to mention a possible reduction in gratuities from a disillusioned tourist party.

Letter from London

A Vicar Flails the Magistrates

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

THE Anglican Church has been going through a rather rough spell in Britain just lately—all the more unfortunate because the troubles coincided with the beginning of the Lambeth Conference. It started with the Archbishop of Canterbury's invitation to Archbishop Makarios which, after his comforting refusal to attend, resulted in Dr. Fisher giving an outspoken description of the gentleman's character on television.

We then had an unfortunate case in which the Bishop of Ripon ordained a young man into the ministry before a period of probation inflicted by a secular court for an offence against a nine-year old boy had expired; and another case affecting the same somewhat elastically-minded ecclesiastic who promulgated a temporary excommunication for six months against two devoted church workers who proposed to marry, because one of them had been the innocent party in a divorce action.

Both cases brought forth some outspoken criticism from other clergy and no one pretends that the church is any richer for the consequent discussion and acrimony. There have also been reports, subsequently denied, of the impending retirement of Dr. Fisher, who was reputed to be becoming increasingly intolerant of any criticism. It would not be altogether surprising if it has made him a little testy because it has been descending upon him in torrents.

It came, therefore, like a breath of clean air when a Yorkshire vicar, the Rev. Patrick Ashe of Otley, used his pulpit to administer a temperate verbal castigation of a very self-righteous bench of magistrates at Otley for their handling of a case in which the matron of Otley hospital pleaded guilty to theft.

The vicar's words are worth recording, for in certain circumstances they are hardly likely to be any less applicable to British Columbia or to anywhere else in the world. The matron had pleaded guilty to the theft of wage packets worth $300, and she was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

After saying that two vital circumstances had been ignored, that there was penitence and mental sickness, and evidence that the matron was still a sick woman needing treatment, sympathy and help—Mr. Ashe added:

"She was sent to jail not as a punishment, nor to protect the public, nor that she might reform; but as the chairman of the magistrates said, as an example to others in charge of public money. Who, I wonder, is going to profit by this example? Is it other matrons who are going through the menopause; or is it to be a warning to crooks who are planning a robbery? If a person is a thief it will only commend them to be more careful. If it is for people who are mentally sick it cannot make the slightest difference. I am not saying that this sentence was not just; but, as Christians understand justice it was a savage sentence because it was not tempered with mercy.

"The stigma that is going to stick to Otley is not that the matron of Otley hospital stole, but that in Otley court she was treated without mercy. For 26 years she has served others, attended the sick and tried to help those in trouble. It is for us, her fellow Christians, to stand by her and I ask you to pray for her during the next six months."

It is a very long time since the pulpit of an English parish church has been used with such courage for words directed to the Christian realities of the world in which it lives and works. Parsons, so long accused of uttering pious platitudes and preaching abstract theology, may take heart not least, perhaps, from the fact that what Mr. Aneurin Bevan called our "prostituted press" reported the vicar very fully and the public reaction has been profoundly moving, suggesting that a little more evidence of the church militant here on earth would do a great deal to strengthen its position.

The Rev. Patrick Ashe may well have established a pattern in re-establishing the leadership of the parish church as an instrument of practical rather than abstract Christianity, and restore the sense of paternal guardianship which the church used to share with the local newspaper or, more justly, the local newspaper inherited long ago from the church. It is perhaps significant, too, that the chairman of the magistrates concerned, a Mr. John Rennie, refused to comment. Some arguments are unanswerable.

But the militancy of Mr. Ashe did something to restore the focus of the church on the eve of Lambeth's conference.

Ravages Inevitable

This Star-Studded World

(From The Times, London)

THERE are certain diseases which are as old as the world itself, but take on at intervals new names. One of them has been referred to in various metaphorical ways. The victim is described as suffering from a swelling of the head, or the swelling may afflict him at the other end and he is said to have grown too big for his boots.

The Russians have now discovered a more refined and scientific term and the patient who has risen too quickly to fame has "stellar malady." It has lately stricken down a young centre-forward of great celebrity who played against England in Moscow.

For a while all went well for him; he lived in fine rooms and drove in lordly cars; he was created a Master of Soviet Sport. Alas, by one of life's little ironies, it was with the certificate of this very honor that he hit a nameless gentleman in the face. He took to drink and bad courses and now, it appears, faces a serious charge of assault involving a possible term of imprisonment. Before he became a "personality" he neither drank nor smoked and was, in fact, the mildest centre-forward going; but when he struck the stars with uplifted head he gave it such a bang that it has never recovered.

Stardom, as it is today elegantly called, does not merely afflict centre-forwards. Particularly vulnerable to its deadly and sudden germs are all eminent persons on screen or in the field. One of the earliest symptoms by which we recognize a victim is that he professes himself the user of various proprietary articles and especially at Christmas time is announced as giving one to his wife. This is innocent enough and no doubt profitable, but soon he exhibits more depressing traits.

He constantly calls "press conferences" either to talk about his own domestic entanglements or to complain that he has been insulted by selectors or captains. Occasionally he threatens that unless the authorities provide better weather he will not appear. He develops a petulance which he believes to be interesting, one of its acutest symptoms at this time of the year being a tendency to dispute the umpire's decision. Webster has said:

> We are merely the stars' tennis balls, > struck and bandied which way pleases > them.

But sometimes the opposite is true, the tennis balls are struck in a way that does not please the stars at all and then there is the devil to pay. Somebody has lately dowered our language with the beautiful epithet "star-studded." This is now a star-studded world and the ravages of the stellar malady are inevitable.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

IF you make friends with an infant wild animal this summer, in your sojourn in the woods, you are condemning it to almost certain death.

Fear, not trust, is the basic law of the wilds. If you make friends with a baby raccoon, fox, deer, beaver, your back will hardly be turned before it walks fearlessly into a trap that it should have feared like death because of the human scent.

Accustom a squirrel, deer mouse or any of the birds to come out into the open to accept your gifts of food, and as soon as your dangerous presence is removed some predator, whether hawk, owl, weasel or fox, will pounce upon the little creature that never should have been taught by you to forget the rule that eternal secrecy is the price of life.

The lands and forests officers all across Canada are asking the press this year to beg the public not to pick up fawns, cubs, or other juveniles that they may encounter on their summer woodland holidays under the impression that they have been deserted. Hardly a week goes by at most forestry stations that somebody does not turn up with such an infant, asking the foresters to take charge of it.

It was not deserted. The pitiable mother was probably not 50 yards away, hiding in the thicket, watching as its baby was kidnapped.

O God! that one might read the book of fate,
And see the revolution of the times
Make mountains level, and the continent
Weary of solid firmness, melt itself
Into the sea! and, other times, to see
The beachy girdle of the ocean
Too wide for Neptune's hips; how chances mock,
And changes fill the cup of alteration
With divers liquors! O! if this were seen,
The happiest youth, viewing his progress through,
What perils past, what crosses to ensue,
Would shut the book, and sit him down and die.

Man's Evolution

I am sure that neither the writer nor the photographer involved in the July 1 spoof of evolution meant to offend either the biologists and geneticists who produced and developed the theory or the thousands of enlightened people who recognize it as one of man's greatest intellectual achievements.

It would have been so much better if they had deliberately set out to ridicule that branch of science that can tell man most about himself and to insult those who feel that humanity is important and that its study is serious. Then one could have quickly branded them as ill-mannered in bad taste, and all would have seen their mistake.

Instead, we are faced with the nearly insoluble problem of what to say to honest but ignorant people. It would do to suggest that they study the theory of evolution—the ideas involved in it are profound, and they do not yield to casual spare-time reading.

Perhaps our best hope is that they will urge privately and publicly, that our high schools teach more biology, and that the biology courses include hard-hitting, unmitigated evolution. Man's future depends on such things.

Union Stupidity

I heard a tirade over the air a few evenings ago by a man named Parkin representing some labor group or other against the B.C. Electric Railway Company and their request for increased rates. I would like to know why men of this type are allowed to spill venom of that nature over air stations licensed by the government. This man failed hopelessly, and never once mentioned the absurd wages demanded and received by the various unions which serve the BCE and which are entirely responsible for the high and increased rates.

He referred to the monopoly of the BCE. He should have referred to the monopoly of the unions which, owing to their stupidity recently in every field they cover, are fast digging their own graves. It is only a matter of time now, and short, at that, when governments will be compelled to control them and end forever their greed for services not rendered.

Premier, Gaglardi There

With Last Laugh New Road Opened

By PETER BRUTON

Nobody really blamed Premier Bennett and other government officials for their "he-who-laughs-last" attitude at the Malahat summit last night.

For close to four years the Malahat has been a nightmare of potholes, washboarding, and mud slicks as construction crews rebuilt the beautiful scenic highway.

The government took a lashing—either for doing too much at one time or for not doing the job quickly enough.

Now it is completed, and the government didn't let an opportunity to do some well-earned drumbeating pass through its hands.

SCORES OF DIGNITARIES

About 250 people and scores of dignitaries were on hand at the Malahat Chalet for the official opening ceremonies on the rebuilt highway.

"The opening is not to glorify the government," explained a beaming Premier Bennett, "but to advertise some more of the splendid views and tourist attractions on Vancouver Island."

Said Highways Minister Gaglardi, in introducing the premier: "He is a proud man indeed and a man who has something to be proud about."

Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood of Nanaimo, flanked by Donald Smith (SC, Victoria) and Herbert Bruch (SC, Esquimalt), cut the Social Credit green ribbon stretching across the highway.

Then Premier Bennett and Mr. Gaglardi drove across the new highway—in a black, horse-drawn landau. It was all very impressive.

Music was provided by the Victoria Girls' Pipe Band and there was color too in the form of the Victoria Girls' Drill Team, four members of which fainted as the speeches droned on.

Among those introduced to the crowd were George Cartu, 78, who lived on the Malahat since before a road was thought of, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones who have resided on the Malahat for the past 38 years.

"This is indeed a great day," said Premier Bennett.

Life with Heiress No Bed of Roses

NEW YORK (UPI) — The life of an heiress was no bed of roses in the first place he has had to keep her in the manner to which she was accustomed on his income as a decorator.

"It is tough being married to an heiress who actually has no money, with everyone thinking you are living on her cash, when actually you are working like a [illegible] to keep her in the luxury to which she has been accustomed," he said.

stormy 18-month marriage of aircraft heiress Fredericka (Bobo) Sigrist, 18, and her interior decorator husband blew up at Idlewild Airport yesterday when he snatched their infant daughter from her arms as she was about to fly home to Mexico.

Eight-Session Upturn Ended At New York

NEW YORK (CP) — The stock-market rise that ran for eight sessions came to an end and brought some realizing into industrial shares.

Industrials and utilities sagged but railroad issues rose to a new high for the year.

Some of the industrial issues fell a point or more, including such leaders as American Telephone (classed as an industrial for the averages), and Eastman Kodak and Union Carbide.

Gulf Oil and Shell Oil lost more than a point each in a generally lower oil section. Steels retreated fractions to a point in Youngstown. Motors lost fractions. Most chemicals fell back. Douglas lost 2 in its section. Drugs dipped with Merck down a point. Lorillard rose a point and U.S. Tobacco more than a point in their department.

Quick Rise Halted

TORONTO (CP) — Profit-taking brought the sharp rise of speculatives to an abrupt halt on the stock market in heavy trading.

Final volume of 12,534,000 shares, was the sixth heaviest in the market's history, but down considerably from Monday's record-making 15,699,000.

The five most active issues, all speculatives, all lost. New Hosco, the big winner last week and on Monday, climbed to $6.80 in early trading Tuesday, but slipped back to close off 30 cents at $5.70 on a turnover of 739,795 shares.

Consolidated Halliwell, the most active issue, eased 23 cents to 62 on 847,500 shares. New High Ridge, making its last showing on the market—it is being de-listed following a change in name and stock split—eased 10 cents at 29½. Wiltsey was 17 cents lower at 37 and Rockwin dipped 29 at 76.

The market generally was lower with industrials, golds and western oils down while base metals were ahead.

Among industrials changes generally were small. Dominion Stores eased 1 point at 68 and a ¼-point loss went to Abitibi, Bell Telephone and Ford A. Federal Grain was the exception, adding 3 at 37.

Among senior mines Noranda added 1¼ at 44 and Falconbridge was up 1 at 25.

Boost for Pipeline

MONTREAL (CP)—Although volume at the close of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges almost reached Monday's high total, no over-all trend was evident.

Few very large increases were recorded except in a mixed and active penny group. East Sullivan improved 12 cents to 2.02, and on the downside, O'Brien slid 12 cents to 1.10.

The only feature in the senior mines and oils was a dip of 2½ points by Calgary-Edmonton at 24½.

Industrial groups were generally mixed. McColl lost one point at 38 as Interprovincial Pipeline went up 1½ to 47½.

Trading modest volumes. Crown Zellerbach slid to 45½ and Power Corporation dipped 2 points to 63.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (CP) — Gilt-edged securities encountered mild investment support on the London stock exchange but business was generally restricted.

In the foreign market, German bonds improved and Japanese bonds were firmer. Rails were irregular with Canadian Pacifics dull but other Transatlantic stocks generally were better.

An exception was International Nickel which fell sharply.

Industrials were irregular. Oil shares lost ground under small selling.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most prices except flax showed an easier tone on the Winnipeg grain exchange. There was increased selling and commercial demand for oats and barley was not too aggressive.

The flax market uncovered orders by export accounts and prices were fairly steady. Trade reports indicated a small business in flax to the continent.

The rye market was mostly local.

There was no indication that reports of some showers in Saskatchewan affected trade.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: United Kingdom 1,240,000 bushels, India 365,000, Norway 95,000, The Netherlands 25,000.

JOHN LABATT LIMITED

TAKES PLEASURE IN ENTERING THE BUSINESS & COMMUNITY LIFE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA THROUGH THE PURCHASE OF A CONTROLLING INTEREST IN LUCKY LAGER BREWERIES LIMITED

W. H. R. JARVIS

We of John Labatt Limited are especially proud to join the business community of British Columbia through purchase of controlling interest in B.C.'s oldest and largest brewing organization, Lucky Lager Breweries Limited. This fulfills our plans for a truly national brewing company. Labatt's products will now be brewed in Montreal, London, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria.

We pledge that the high standards of John Labatt Limited and Lucky Lager Breweries Limited will be maintained in all products produced in British Columbia. We are now "laying down" certain of Labatt's internationally famous brews in the B.C. breweries. These will become available in British Columbia on completion of a series of rigid quality tests. The well known products of Lucky Lager Breweries will, of course, be continued.

It gives us great satisfaction to know that all the personnel of Lucky Lager Breweries Limited will remain with the Company. We welcome these exceptionally skilled and able people into the Labatt organization. We also look forward to continuing good relations with all the friends developed by Lucky Lager Breweries Limited in the company's century of business in British Columbia.

PRESIDENT.

IN 1828 a small brewery opened in the tiny frontier outpost of London to serve the scattered settlements of Upper Canada. Today, after the passage of 130 years, London, Ontario, has become an important part of the industrial heartland of Canada and the little brewhouse is now the great home brewery of John Labatt Limited.

The Labatt family entered the brewing business in London in 1847 when John K. Labatt purchased an interest in the infant company. Six years later he assumed full ownership and the business remained a family enterprise until 1945 when it became a public company. John K. Labatt was succeeded by his son John Labatt who had studied brewing under an English brewmaster and learned the ale formula which the company still employs. He was followed by his sons John S. Labatt and Hugh F. Labatt and then his grandson, John P. Labatt, who is presently in charge of the Company's Manitoba division.

At the end of World War II, John Labatt Limited launched a dynamic modernization and expansion program. In 1946 the demand for Labatt products had so increased throughout the Province of Ontario that the Copeland Brewing Co. of Toronto was purchased to provide additional brewing facilities. In 1953 further expansion took place with the purchase of Shea's Winnipeg Brewery Ltd. In 1956 the Company built La Brasserie Labatt Limitee, the most modern brewery in the world at Ville La Salle, Quebec.

Labatt's leadership in community service activities has set a pattern for the industry. Typical examples are the Labatt Highway Courtesy and Safety Program, the Mobile Safe Driving Clinic, Mobile Disaster Service Units, and sponsorship of Basic English Classes and films for new Canadians. In sponsoring the Labatt Open Golf Tournament the company helps raise substantial funds for many charitable organizations.

John Labatt Limited is especially proud of its reputation in labour relations. Employees and management have served as members of the same team and each has clearly recognized its obligations to the other. Labatt employees were among the first Canadians to enjoy the 40 hour week, life, sickness and accident insurance, vacations with pay, and many other benefits.

Today John Labatt Limited is one of the world's great brewers. In the future, as in the past, Labatt's growth and expansion will continue to parallel that of Canada and the Company's progress will continue to stem from the same sound business principles which have accounted for its progress since 1828. Summarized, the aims of John Labatt Limited are: first, to produce malt beverages of the finest quality; second, to make a fair profit on operations; and third, to meet all obligations to customers, shareholders, employees and the community. The Company looks forward to expanding its business and friendships in B.C.

The Less Serious Side of It

Three competitors at 39th annual Victoria City Police Revolver Club shoot took time out yesterday to give cameraman Bud Kinsman a "gag shot." Constable Tom Hocking of Vancouver City Police seeks word of praise under big hat from Sgt. Willis "Bilko" Nelson of U.S. Army team from Camp Hanford, who wears monkey as he is low man on team. PFC Adrian Cockerill, also from Camp Hanford, shows how he escaped the noise at the Thetis range, including that being made by Hocking and Nelson.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

When Laurie Kerr thrilled local golf with his runaway victory in the B.C. Close championship at Royal Colwood last weekend, he won his place on the B.C. Willingdon Cup team all right, but he went home trophyless.

The Charlton Trophy which goes with the winning of the B.C. Close is lost.

It was last presented two years ago when it was won in Vancouver by Bob Fleming, and for a time after that it had an honored spot in the Gorge Vale Golf Club. Last year, when it was won by Bert Ticehurst, the trophy was not on hand for the presentation.

For some reason or other, the B.C. Golf Association did not take steps then to locate the trophy, and it was only last week that a new search was instituted.

It was not with Bob Fleming, and Gorge Vale's secretary, Leo Derman, said he was under the impression that the trophy had been returned to Vancouver prior to last year's event.

There the matter lies at present. If anyone has any idea where the trophy may be, would they ring me at 3-4111, or contact Derman at Gorge Vale.

SHOULD SUIT KERR: The Scarborough Golf and Country Club, where the Willingdon Cup and the amateur championship of Canada are to be played later this month, should suit the straight-hitting Victoria representative.

The unusual feature of the course is that it has no fairway bunkers. The hazards are all provided by nature. There are the rolling hills and the valleys, trees and water hazards to make it an exciting and exacting test of golf.

A river that runs through the course has to be crossed eight times during the round and it provides lateral hazards at many places.

If Kerr can hit them as straight as he did over the 54 holes of the Close at Colwood, Scarborough should not present him with any great difficulties, and in his present form he must be rated as more than an outside hope to land the championship.

This is said even in the knowledge that Kerr prefers medal to match play, for most of his victories have been in the battle against par.

The main obstacle to Kerr's ranking among the country's great golfers is his unexciting putting. Kerr is not a dynamic holer-out like Bill McColl, but he is a beautiful swinger and hits the ball cleanly in the centre of the club with every other shot.

He will carry the best wishes of all local golfers, not only to play a notable part in the championship itself but to play his full part in keeping the Willingdon Cup in British Columbia.

DISCORDANT NOTE: There was only one discordant note in Kerr's win at Colwood. When it was over a Vancouver official asked him if he would be able to take part in an eliminating test for a place on the Willingdon Cup team.

Because of his sweeping victory in the Close, Kerr had every right to decline, as he did with the statement that he was willing to take his chance of selection on his record as it stood.

Naturally, Kerr had to be chosen, and the playoff for fourth spot on the team has been confined to four Vancouver golfers.

It was felt at one time that Bill McColl, who is running close behind Kerr in his medal average this year, might have been asked to take part in the test for the final place, but the Victoria man wasn't included.

THE JOURNEY WAS LONG: People who think that the CPR ferry strike is not causing undue tourist trouble should ask a number of the Vancouver golfers who came here last weekend to play in the B.C. Close Championship at Colwood.

Several of them who travelled by car via Black Ball to Nanaimo spent most of Friday evening and Saturday morning on the journey. Some of them arrived just after dawn at Colwood and hung around until the clubhouse opened when breakfast was hurriedly prepared for them.

Cec Watson, Royal Colwood secretary, thinks the strike more than anything else had to do with the small entry received.

Roskamp Star for Timbermen; Rocks Host Leaders Tonight

Ross Roskamp, a husky rookie defenceman who started the season in fine style for Victoria Shamrocks and then got his release, on request, after being benched for several games, is doing his best to keep the Mann Cup champions out of the Inter-City Lacrosse League play-downs.

Roskamp immediately found steady duty with Nanaimo Timbermen and last night turned out to be the hero as the up-Islanders moved within a point of the Rocks with a 9-8 triumph over Vancouver Pilseners before a Vancouver crowd of about 900 fans.

He came through in the fourth quarter with two crucial goals. The first put Timbermen ahead, 8-7, at 8:35 and the second broke an 8-8 tie with only 40 seconds left.

Rocks have the advantage of two games in hand but their two games this week are against the league-leading New Westminster Salmonbellies and the Victoria club could easily find itself in last place by week's end.

Salmonbellies play here tonight with the return game at New Westminster tomorrow night.

COACH TO PLAY

They'll be without defencemen Lew Landess and Jack Howse tonight, both having job commitments, and while Jim McNulty and Derry Davies will be in action, there is some worry about the knee injuries both have been battling this season. However, Al Gill announced last night he would be able to play and coach Whitey Severson has come out of "retirement" to give his club a hand.

Severson plans only a utility role at the start, filling in on odd-man plays and taking a turn here and there. Eventually, he will probably join Archie Browning and McNulty as a forward-line regular. Ed Longpre will centre for Browning and McNulty tonight.

Gill will be between Bert Bertoia and Pee Wee Bradshaw while Ed Kowalyk, Ron Jay and George Wilson form the third line. Junior Green will move back on defence with Derry Davies, Jackie Northup and Tom Druce.

At Vancouver last night, goalie Fred Fulla blocked 21 of 23 shots in the first half as Timbermen ran up a 5-2 lead. But Pilseners had another of their good third quarters, scoring five times to take a 7-6 lead into the final 15 minutes.

McKAY BEST

Skip McKay, standout player on the floor with his fine checking and excellent passing, tied it up in the first minute of the final quarter. After Roskamp put Timbermen ahead, rookie Pete Black tied it at 13.47 to set the stage for Roskamp's last-minute scoring shot.

Half Beard Worth $115

Grinning at thought of being able to get rid of his half beard is George Bates, proprietor of Bates' Beach Boathouse. The sprouted luxurious growth during winter, meaning to get it lopped off during his "beard derby," which was limited to anglers with beards. After it was half off, competing anglers raised a "pot" of $115 to go to Senior Citizens' Home at Courtenay if George would keep other half until July 1. He did, although several weeks of explanations and extra attention proved trying on occasion.

Ed Foychuk, who gave up only seven hits to get the win, doubled home Stu Mitchell, who had singled for the first run of the game in the fifth inning.

Arrows tied the game in the seventh as Norm Curran socked the first of his two homers.

In the top of the ninth, Gorge exploded for four runs on two errors and singles by Don Paulin, Vern Evans, Charlie Boyd and Chick Newman.

Curran's second homer and singles by Len Anderson, Archie Sluggett and Bill Benn cut the margin to two runs in the bottom of the ninth.

Cut in Sports Salmon Limits Ordered by Washington State

SEATTLE (AP)—State fisheries director Milo Moore Tuesday ordered emergency restrictions on sports salmon catch limits in Washington waters.

The order did not affect commercial fishing operations.

The restrictions were ordered to combat what Moore called an alarming decrease in the number of salmon being caught.

From the mouth of the Columbia River north to the Strait of Juan de Fuca and then that portion of the strait east to Tongue Point, near Port Angeles, the daily sports salmon catch limit will be three fish 20 inches in length or over.

This area encompasses the popular salmon fishing spots of Westport, La Push, Neah Bay and Sekiu.

In that area of the strait east of Tongue Point and in all areas of Puget Sound the daily catch limit will be three salmon 16 inches or over.

In the Columbia River from its mouth to Puget Island the daily catch will be two fish not less than 22 inches. From Puget Island upstream to Rock Island dam the catch limit will be two fish not less than 20 inches in length.

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

(While Red Smith is on vacation his space will be filled with reprints of some of his previous columns. Today's column is concerned with an All-Star All-Screwball baseball team.)

Pitching Takes Brains

"My All-Star all-screwball team," Al Schacht said, "starts with Art Shires on first base—no, that's wrong. It starts with Moe Berg behind the plate. Berg is a kind of nut, you know. He's an educated mental case. An educated catcher, which is the worst kind. Then there's Smead Jolley in the outfield. Did I ever tell you about Smeadie in Boston? Don't answer.

"Smeadie was playing left field when there was a hill in Fenway Park. A sort of incline up to the left field wall—Duffy's Hill they called it, for Duffy Lewis. Every time Smeadie started up after a fly he'd trip and fall on his face and finally they got him out mornings and had him practice running up the hill after fungoes.

"Well, Washington comes to town and somebody says: 'Smeadie, how you going to manage Duffy's hill today?' Smeadie says: 'Don't worry about me, I got it mastered.' Well, the first ball hit out there is one by Joe Cronin that looks like it might be caught if Smeadie can make the hill.

"Jolley turns and dashes up the hill and wheels with his back pressed against the fence. Then he sees he has overrun the ball, so he starts down. One step and, oops, here he goes flat on his kisser, the ball hits him on the head, Cronin slides into third base, and Smeadie is out of the ball game.

"Well, he's sitting there on the bench rubbing the knot on his head and cussing. 'A lot of smart guineas on the nine,' he says. 'Ten days you spend teaching me how to go up the hill and there ain't a guinea in the crowd with the brains to teach me how to come down.'

"The next day they decide to make a catcher out of him. He's a great big guy, you know, that can hit. That's all he can do. So he's behind the plate and the first batter up is Joe Judge, Smeadie ain't caught a pitch yet in a major-league game, but Joe turns to him and says: 'Smeadie, how do you like this catching racket?'

"Well, Joe,' Smeadie says, 'I'll tell you. Out there in the outfield you're all alone by yourself, but here you got conversation.' With that, there's a pitch and Judge hits a high foul straight up in the air.

"Now, Smeadie was getting a little bald and his wife was always telling him to wear a tight cap. 'When your cap flies off, Smeadie,' she'd tell him, 'you look like an old man.' He used to wear a cap so tight he'd have to wrench it off like this in the clubhouse.

"When this foul went up, Smeadie yanked off his mask, and of course the cap came off, too. Smeadie thought of his bald spot. He claps his mitt over the top of his head and turns to the stand. 'I got it, Mary!' he yells. Then he turns to the third baseman and hollers: 'Okay, guinea, it's all yours!'

"The next day he was in the minors."

"My all-screwball team," said a man at the luncheon table, "would start with the pitcher."

"What do you mean?" Mr. Schacht demanded. "Pitching takes brains. Strategy. Lemme tell you about when I was in the International League. We're playing a double-header in Baltimore and between games I play a screwy golf game with a fungo stick and one of those ten-cent baseballs we called Rockets. It's just like a regular baseball only it's sawdust. When I finish the act I stick the Rocket in my hip pocket.

"Sixth inning of the second game our pitcher is getting belted and Chief Bender sends me into the game. Three men on bases. Seems like there's always three on when I'm pitching.

"In those days you could discolor the ball with licorice or tobacco juice. As I walk in, I'm reaching in my pocket for my licorice and I feel the Rocket. 'Oh-oh,' I say, 'oh-oh.' I stick the Rocket in my glove and, when I'm on the mound, I turn my back to the crowd and slip the real ball into my shirt.

"Joe Boley's the first hitter. I lay one in for him and he tees off with everything he's got. Fizzz, it goes in a little pop fly to the shortstop. One out. Len Stiles is next, and he tees off. Fhzzz another pop fly. Two out. The third guy is big Rube Parnham, which I can always beat him because I talk to him and get his goat. This time, though, I'm busy massaging that Rocket back into shape, because it's pretty lopsided. Finally I lay one in and he swings and it goes spiraling up over my head. It's just the shape of this hard roll here, I wave everybody away and make the catch myself. Three out.

"But now I can't leave the Rocket on the mound and I can't get the real ball, which has worked around here to the back of my shirt. So I carried the Rocket into the dugout, but before I could get the real ball out, Bill McGowan, the umpire, starts hollering and I got to roll the Rocket out to him. It goes skipping an' hopping out across the grass.

"Of course, there's a terrific howl, and after a lot of argument I say: 'Well, all right: I confess I tricked the Rube, but I got Boley and Stiles legitimate.' I figure I'm going to get fined anyway, and I might as well get away with something.

"So McGowan rules it an illegal pitch to Parnham, and I take the real ball out of my shirt and go out to pitch to the Rube again. I get two strikes on him, and then I start working on him. I reach into my shirt, and the crowd starts yelling: 'Watch him!' and McGowan comes storming out to me. 'You just live your life, and leave me live mine,' I tell him. 'See, here's the ball, and it's okay.' So he goes back, and I throw one more to the Rube right up here under his chin, and he strikes out.

"Well, he's so mad he comes howling out to the mound, and I say: 'Here's the ball; look at it.' And I toss it to him. He grabs the ball and whirls and throws it clean out of the park, and McGowan fines him twenty-five dollars.

"See what I mean," Mr. Schacht asked, "about pitching strategy?"

American League Wins All-Star Game On Solid Pitching, McDougald's Single

. . . winning hit

BALTIMORE—Picking up their runs one at a time and with their pitchers proving too good after Bob Turley had gotten off to a shaky start, the American League all-stars nipped the best of the National League, 4-3, before a capacity crowd of 48,999 in the second major baseball leagues' all-star game.

It was the second win in a row for the American League and it gave the so-called junior circuit a 15-10 edge in the 25 years the game has been played.

DULLISH AFFAIR

Yesterday's game was not up to usual all-star calibre. It was, in fact, a dullish nine innings of baseball in which each club made two errors. Most plays were routine and there was little chance for much in the way of spectacular fielding. And, despite the concentrated home-run power in both line-ups, there wasn't a single extra base hit and only Nellie Fox, second-baseman for the winners, got more than one hit.

A blooper single by pinch-hitter Gil McDougald scored Frank Malzone with the winning run in the sixth inning after an error by third-baseman Frank Thomas moved Malzone into scoring position.

The seventh produced about the only real excitement of the game as Baltimore fans, although hoping for an American League win, hooted and hooted at Casey Stengel when he sent one of his Yankees, Yogi Berra, up to pinch-hit for catcher Gus Triandos. Baltimore catcher named to the starting job in the player poll.

And when Berra popped up after swinging at the first pitch, the stadium rocked to the jeers of disgruntled watchers.

But this was the all-out inning for Stengel after Malzone had led off with a single. The grizzled manager then called on Ted Williams to bat for Luis Aparicio, weak-hitting shortstop.

GIL COMES THROUGH

Williams rapped a bounder towards Thomas, who couldn't come up with it as both runners were safe. Stengel then sent up McDougald to bat for pitcher Early Wynn and McDougald stilled the hooting as his short single fell in front of centre-fielder Willie Mays and Malzone crossed the plate with what proved to be the winning run.

Turley didn't have either his control or his usual speed and was in trouble from the start as Mays hit a ball which hit the bag at third base and went for a single. With one out, Stan Musial connected for a run-and-hit single which put Mays on third. He scored after the catch on Hank Aaron's fly.

Then Turley hit Ernie Banks, walked Frank Thomas and uncorked a wild pitch to send in a second run.

Turley walked pitcher Warren Spahn to start the second inning. [illegible] then stole second, went to third on Triandos' bad throw, and scored on a single by Bob Skinner.

RELIEVERS TOO GOOD

That was all for Turley. Stengel sent Ray Narleski to his rescue, followed the Cleveland righthander with veteran Early Wynn and southpaw Billy O'Dell.

And that was all for the National League. Narleski pitched until the fifth. Wynn pitched one inning and O'Dell the last three. Thomas' single was the only hit off the trio with O'Dell, a bonus player, being a particular standout.

The American League got one run back in the first inning. Fox reached first on a bad throw by Banks, went to third on Mickey Mantle's single, and scored as Jackie Jensen hit into a double play.

Winners plated their second run in the second inning, when Triandos, Narleski and Fox singled, and they tied it up in the fifth.

Next game, Thursday: Eagles vs Pearce Electric.

Wakeman & Trimble regained sole possession of first place in the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League last night, hammering out an 11-5 victory over Naval Vets at Royal Athletic Park.

The win boosted Wakeman & Trimble one-half game in front of the idle Eagles.

Buddy Brice and Lyall Cornett each collected three hits in five trips to pace the winner's at the plate.

Brice struck the big blow of the game—a bases-loaded triple—in the top of the ninth to cap a five-run Wakeman & Trimble uprising.

Mike Ash picked up his first win since joining Wakeman & Trimble, scattering nine hits and striking out six.

Just Plain Hymns Ern's Big Sellers

No Stomp, No Sophistication

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Amid the rock 'n' roll and show tunes on the best selling list, one record album stands out like a beacon. It is Tennessee Ernie Ford's Nearer the Cross.

No stomping beat. No sophisticated lyrics. Just solid old fashioned hymns sung with simple reference.

There's another Ford album among the best sellers. It's called Hymns, and it has been on the list for 78 weeks, a phenomenal record.

Ernie isn't smug about these achievements, but he's certainly happy. They are the result of a steady campaign of his to bring hymns to a mass audience.

"You just don't know what a battle I had putting them over. When I tried to sing hymns on my [illegible] can't do it. You can't take your audience when they're 'way up there and bring them 'way down.'

"Why, that was ridiculous to me. How can you bring an audience down with a hymn?"

When he finally won his point, the TV minds came up with a big production number to accompany his hymn. Singers and dancers all over the place.

"Now let's just cut out all this gingerbread and just sing the hymn," Ernie declared.

The response has been enormous. [illegible] are [illegible] sive in their praise; many send him stacks of hymn books, even torn-out copies of their favorite hymns.

"I find new ones by just glancing through the books," Ernie said. "And we do them just as they are written."

Dossiers on MPs? Fulton Won't Say

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton declined yesterday to say whether the RCMP has files or dossiers on any members of Parliament.

"It is considered to be contrary to the public interest to give a specific answer," he said in a written reply to Frank Howard (CCF, Skeena) who asked whether there were any such files and the names of the MPs involved. The reply was tabled in the Commons.

Mr. Fulton said the RCMP's files on individuals are confidential and many of them secret. Files or dossiers were started by reports, statements or knowledge of activities brought to the RCMP's attention and which the force was bound to investigate in the normal course of its duties.

The follow-up investigation, in many cases, showed there was nothing of a substantial, or criminal, nature, said, but the file remained on record.

Mr. Fulton said it would be grossly unfair to any individual to have it disclosed there is a police file under his name. A sure way of raising suspicion against an individual was to isolate a group of individuals such as members of parliament and say there are files on some of them, and then refuse to give details on any specific MP.

Climbed to Crime

Captain May Join Sailors in Clink

LONGVIEW, Wash. (AP)—Five Scots seamen from a British freighter, whose captain had them thrown in the clink because they tossed the bosun's mate in the drink, learned Tuesday they'll either:

Be free today;

Have their skipper, bosun's mate and some others of the crew as cellmates for the next few months;

Or be turned over to British authorities.

Cowlitz County prosecutor George W. Sibbald, handling the case like someone had slipped him a hot potato, spelled out the choices for the men.

Capt. C. A. Holleyoak of the Ss. Catalina Star had the five seamen arrested early Sunday morning. He complained they'd roughed up W. H. Harvey, bosun's mate, and heaved him into the Columbia River.

While authorities here were engaged in some concentrated head-scratching on what to do, the Catalina Star moved on to Portland, Ore., about 50 miles upstream.

The men said the bosun's mate fell overboard during a friendly party.

With the Catalina Star gone and no complaining withnesses, Sibbald said he'd turn the men loose this morning unless Holleyoak, Harvey and others who saw the scuffle show up here by then and a formal complaint is signed.

With the freighter due to leave Portland at 6 a.m., headed out to sea, fulfillment of the prosecutor's ultimatum was possible—but highly improbable.

That's because Sibbald said he'd hold the two ship's officers and the others as material witnesses in the county jail until the October term of court.

The other alternative in this opera bouffe is that British consular authorities will ask that the men be turned over to them.

A RESEARCH REPORT...

The health aspects of cigarette smoking

Since 1953, British, American and more recently Canadian doctors have issued warnings suggesting a link between smoking and lung cancer.

AS AN established and leading member of the industry, Rothmans accepts that it is its duty to find a solution to the problem, and would like it known that the question of the relationship between cancer and smoking has for many years engaged the attention of the Research Division of its world wide organization.

Several years ago the Rothmans Research Division had already accepted the thesis that:

"The greater the tars reduction in tobacco smoke, the greater the reduction in the possible risk of lung cancer."

During the recent annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association held at Halifax, N.S., a distinguished Canadian doctor, according to newspaper reports, called upon the Canadian tobacco industry for action on the following:

1. Manufacture an effective filter
2. Remove harmful substances from tobacco before manufacturing
3. Modify combustion to reduce tars

Here is an up-to-the-minute progress report on where Rothmans Research stands in respect to these 3 points.

1. Manufacture an effective filter

Rothmans Research has developed many experimental filter tips including one which filters virtually 100% of the total solids in tobacco smoke. Such extreme filtration is unnecessary, and obviously would be unacceptable to the smoker.

Since 1950, continuous Rothmans Research has steadily improved filtration, simultaneously with improvements to the taste of filter tip cigarettes. Today's Rothmans filter offers the best balance between filtration and satisfaction known to science.

The performance of today's Canadian-made Rothmans King Size Filter is as follows:

Rothmans King Size Filter . . .

yields 14.4% less tars than brand "A" yields 30.0% less tars than brand "B" yields 30.2% less tars than brand "C" yields 38.7% less tars than brand "D"

(Letters substituted for the names of four other best selling filter brands in Canada.)

2. Remove harmful substances from tobacco before manufacturing

Recently, Rothmans Research made another significant discovery, namely that certain types of tobaccos, when smoked, produce less tars and nicotine than others. Constant vigilance by Rothmans Research laboratories ensures that only costlier, milder, lighter virginia is selected for Rothmans cigarettes. As distinct from the old trial and error approach to making cigarettes, Rothmans leadership in research is your guarantee of purity and consistent quality.

The benefits of this discovery were announced in Canadian newspapers on May 13th, 1958.

The performance of today's Canadian-made Rothmans King Size plain end cigarette is as follows: (Letters substituted for the names of the three best known plain end brands in Canada):

Rothmans King Size Untipped . . .

yields 26.5% less tars than brand "X"
yields 28.2% less tars than brand "Y"
yields 34.0% less tars than brand "Z"

Note: Above percentages for filter and plain end cigarettes are based on two sets of tests by an outstanding independent research laboratory. One test was carried out last year and the other this year. Percentages given apply to tars from equivalent millimeters of length smoked. Original documents of these findings may be seen by calling personally at the offices of Rothmans of Pall Mall Canada Limited, 64 Samor Road, Toronto.

3. Modify combustion to reduce tars

The Rothmans group of companies invented the world's first King Size Filter in 1951. The purpose of the extra length of king size cigarettes is to cool the smoke on the way to the throat. The extra length also enables the smoker to stub out a longer butt, for it is the last one-third of the cigarette which, if smoked, generates more heat—hence more tars. Rothmans Research Division declares that the extra length is provided for cooler smoking, rather than more puffs from the butt.

Finally, Rothmans Research Division pledges itself to continue its policy of all-out research, and to give smokers of Rothmans cigarettes improvements as soon as they are developed.

And, if in addition to the foregoing, smokers themselves will practise moderation, Rothmans believes that smoking can still remain one of life's simple and safe pleasures.

Strike Hits Garden Party

The CPR coast steamship strike will probably cause a substantial reduction in the number of those attending the garden party at Government House for Princess Margaret on next Monday afternoon. Officials said yesterday the number of guests is expected to total about 4,000 instead of the 6,000 invited.

Residents from all parts of B.C. have been invited to the garden party and besides the protocol list guests are mainly those who have signed the guest book at Government House in recent years.

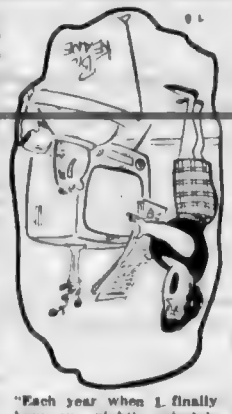
TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

The movies' short-lived 3-D process may be coming to TV.

William Free president of Dimensional Pictures Corporation of Hollywood, says his company plans "a fourth-major television network." The company put out 3-D movies for Paramount and has a 3-D film process for TV. He believes it would not involve new [illegible], but would supply six hours of films in 3-D daily to any stations wanting them. Mr. Free claims he has the support of Warners' studio and may get all of Warners' TV shows, such as Maverick, but ABC is not likely to let [illegible].



"Each year when I finally have our nightly schedule memorized, they change everything for the summer."

Speaking of Maverick, Henry Kaiser [illegible] has upped sales of his aluminum by 11 per cent. He wants another hour-long series on ABC, but no westerns which, except for Maverick, have high ratings and low "product identification." That may kill some westerns soon.

Speaking of ABC, as rumored it has sold most of its weekday time from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. to the Young and Rubicam advertising agency for $13,300,000 a year, for resale by the agency to any sponsor it wants. No agency has ever had such full control of network time. ABC got the [illegible] shortly after losing the $7,000,000 Kellogg's cereal account which is being moved to commercials on individual stations.

TV BITS President Eisenhower's speech in our parliament is on three times today, at 7 a.m., 9 a.m. and 11:30 p.m. Otherwise best bets are the movies "Paradine Case" and "Astonished Heart". . . As for ratings, Russia's Moiseyev ballet helped Ed Sullivan rack up a 19.7 score to 12.5 for Maverick and 9 for Steve Allen. . . The Moiseyev group grossed $1,600,000 in 69 U.S. and Canadian shows, a huge amount when you think "My Fair Lady" grosses $70,000 each week. Impresario Sol Hurok says he hopes to bring the Moiseyevs back in 1960. . . Elfrida Von Nardroff lost out on 21 at last because she said Goebbels killed himself after the Nuremberg trials. It was Goering.

Judy Garland wants Mickey Rooney to join her in the two CBS specials she will do next season. They would sing the hit songs of their old MGM musicals. . . Warners has fired Cheyenne star Clint Walker, who demanded a piece of the show as his price for staying on, and will replace him with somebody called Ty Hardin. . . NBC finally has found a sponsor for Restless Gun next season, but has lost The Thin Man's sponsor and will replace that show with the new George Burns variety effort. . . DuPont has decided its specials next season will all be dramas, there'll be no musicals. . . Playhouse 90 may do a biography of young pianist Van Cliburn.

AFTER YOU,
HORSE!

Carts ought to come AFTER horses. We all know that. But some people forget it. They want a serviceable car yet they charge around from lot to lot, looking only at price tags. They learn nothing about the dealer until after the sale. Sometimes they're sorry. Why not put the things first? Find out about your dealer—his reputation, how long he's been at it, whether he's a 'quick-sale artist' or a man who is anxious to satisfy you. Better still—find out about us here at

King Fisherman

Contest Holds Pace; Entries Pass 3,000

Entries received in the fourth annual Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest have passed the 3,000 mark although slightly down from last year for the first week of July, a fact which is largely due to a decrease in the number of visiting anglers on the Island.

An increase of approximately 900 entries over last year for the first two months of the contest has made it possible to stay even with the pace set in 1957, when the contest produced a record of 16,399 entries. However, because of an exceptionally fine tourist season, last July brought in 4,652 entries and there were 6,501 entries in August.

Matching those figures may prove difficult but the last few days have brought some good fishing reports. Fishing improved in Saanich Inlet over the weekend and there was word of some fine catches yesterday.

Up-Island, fishing has been good during the past week at Bates Beach, seven miles north of Courtenay, and it has been consistently good off Shelter Bay, south of Campbell River. The best area sometimes varies from week to week or even day to day but the stretch between Little River and Campbell River is a good bet for coho at almost any spot.

There are reports, too, of better fishing off Qualicum Beach and anglers have been hooking into good-sized springs off Campbell River. And for those on the south end of the Island, don't forget to keep an eye on Cowichan Bay. The spring run could show any day now.

Running Out of Fish

All that Ken Oldfield, left, and Arnold McKay have to show for 12 hours of fishing in Georgian Bay, Ont., is half a box of fish. Commercial fishermen, they operated from a $24,000 tug and used $5,000 worth of nets. Veteran fishermen say commercial Great Lakes fishing is doomed unless restocking is started immediately.—(CPC)

U.K. Discloses Pact

Safeguards Hedge Trade of A-Secrets

LONDON (AP)—The British government made public yesterday the terms of a new agreement under which this country and the United States will exchange information on atomic weapons for mutual defence purposes.

The agreement was submitted to Congress by President Eisenhower July 3. It will come into force unless vetoed or altered by the U.S. legislators within 30 days from that date.

The pact, which supplants one in effect since June, 1955, is hedged with safeguards which, among other things, relieve either party from providing the other with any actual atomic weapons.

As outlined in a British government white paper, either Britain or the United States may withhold from each other information which would "constitute an unreasonable risk to its defence and security."

They will exchange information which they otherwise agree to be necessary for:

1. The development of defence plans.

2. The training of personnel in the use of atomic weapons and means to defend against them.

3. Evaluation of the capabilities of potential enemies in the atomic weapons field.

4. The development of means of delivering atomic weapons on targets presumably including intercontinental rockets.

5. The development of atomic reactors useful for military purposes.

State Ferries Busiest Ever

SEATTLE (AP)—Two hundred and ten thousand holiday travellers rode the Puget Sound ferries during the long July 4 weekend to establish an all-time record.

I. D. Burse, general manager of Washington State Ferries, said the previous record was nearly doubled. It was 110,000 passengers, recorded on the long Memorial Day weekend this year.

The count, which also listed 60,000 vehicles, was taken from Thursday through Sunday. All 21 of the system's ferries were needed to handle the traffic.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Grass Likes Gravel

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I have often wondered why it is that grass, which is often so difficult to get established happily in the lawn where you want it, will spring up with such an embarrassing vigor in gravel and cinder paths and driveways, where you don't want it. I have been observing this phenomenon for some years now, and I believe the affinity of grass for cinders or gravel must be due to the excellent aeration and drainage you get in these materials.

We can draw a couple of useful conclusions from this. If I ever have occasion to make a new lawn again, I will most certainly spread a layer of weathered cinders or very small screened gravel over the site before the topsoil goes down. And if I had my choice of topsoils, I'd pick a rather sandy loam with lots of stones, pea-size and smaller, mixed in. This would be combined with very old, rotted manure to make up the top layer of my lawn site.

My present back lawn, which I inherited from the previous owner, is on heavy soil with a high proportion of clay in it, and this takes a terrible beating from the children's play and all the other traffic over it. The surface becomes compacted and beaten down, impervious to air or water, and the grass thins out to an alarming degree until I get busy and do something about it.

Aerating is the [illegible] lem—punching holes all over the lawn to let the water and air percolate through the crusted surface to the roots. I have a special hollow-tined aerating fork for this job which cost me $7.45 and is the best garden investment I ever made. This little implement punches three neat circular holes every time you push it down, depositing the cores on the surface where they crumble and disappear in a few days.

It is a long, strenuous and monotonous job to punch holes every six inches over the whole lawn, but I don't know of any one single operation that will produce such a dramatic improvement. I do the job in the spring as soon as the soil dries out enough for the fork to bring up clean-cut cores instead of sloppy mud, but the grass responds so gratefully, I can't resist taking another crack at it from time to time through the summer.

What with rain, watering, and normal weathering, the holes silt up too quickly for my liking, and one good way of keeping them open for the free passage of air and water is [illegible] is a grade called brick sand, with coarse grains and a lot of small stones in it, and by dumping piles of it here and there over the freshly-pierced lawn and working it in with an old broom, I am gradually bringing about a permanent improvement. Pretty soon, I think I'll have grass as healthy as the kind that grows in the driveway.

If you don't have or can't borrow a hollow-tined fork, it is possible to do quite a satisfactory job of aeration with an ordinary flat-tined digging fork. Thrust the tines straight down to a depth of about five inches, then wiggle the handle back and forth to enlarge the holes, but without any actual prying up, which would injure the roots.

Chisholm Sees Slim Hope

Put All Humanity First

By R. O. MARRION

Unless people learn to think beyond the confines of national cultures, as human beings interested in the welfare of all humanity, their chances of surviving much longer are not very good, Dr. Brock Chisholm said yesterday.

Dr. Chisholm is president of the World Association for Mental Health and former director-general of the World Health Organization. He spoke to the Kiwanis Club.

It was useful, he said, for people to remind themselves that they did not necessarily have a permanent hold on the space on earth. Many other forms of life had flourished, then disappeared for lack of ability to adjust to changed situations.

Whether man could make the adjustment to the new situation in the world, quickly enough, was a serious question.

Now, for the first time in history, Dr. Chisholm said, man is in a position to wipe out mankind. A lot of hard, new thinking needs to be done in order that humanity may survive. Ancestral patterns of thought and behavior offer no help, because there was no ancestral experience of this situation.

Until now, most people had been born into whole sets of attitudes and had just accepted them, and until now it hadn't mattered much.

"But this is a new kind of thing where we are going to have to learn to function as members of the human race," he said.

Thinking in these terms was difficult, Dr. Chisholm said. "We see from inside the attitudes prescribed by our own culture."

But it might be helpful to look at certain situations from the viewpoint of someone living in Southeast Asia.

Food, from that viewpoint, would be the first concern, he said. More than half the people in the world are suffering from malnutrition, and two - thirds aren't getting enough food to be healthy.

So the man in Southeast Asia, concerned for his starving wife and children, would look first at the surplus of food in North America, and wonder if this situation was reasonable.

The man in Southeast Asia would also look at the "ridiculous" situation of North America turning out just about half the world's production from irreplaceable resources.

Patterns laid down in constitutions were obsolete, Dr. Chisholm said, and the world hadn't an economic or monetary system designed for the time when the great concern was survival—"There is a lot of painful thinking to be done."

Needed, he said, were a world police force and a totally redesigned system of distributing food.

Hollywood Today

By Sheilah Graham

Old Favorites Still Big Draw

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—The Charles Boyer-Claudette Colbert "Marriage-Go-Round" play already has an advance sale of $800,000. And it doesn't open on Broadway until Oct. 28! The old favorites still draw the customers.

RKO of London is taking over the contract of Diana Dors from the defunct RKO of Hollywood and will pay her $275,000 outstanding for two pictures remaining on her pact. This deal was made by Hollywood agent Louis Shurr. Diana hasn't done very well since leaving Louis.

When I asked Richard Fleischer, director of "The Vikings," "Don't you agree the picture contains too much brutality?" he shrugged. "It's hard to compete with the 'Draculas' and 'Frankensteins' using powder puffs." As expected, the Kirk Douglas-Tony Curtis production is a hit at the box office.

John Farrow was in London to find character actors for "John Paul Jones," and stayed at the exclusive Garrick Club, founded by the great actor for fellow actors. Not seeing any thespians around, John asked his host why. "Because," he was told, "the actors who are members usually blackball other actors."

Rosalind Russell's 15-year-old son, Lance, home from his eastern school for the summer, is working afternoons in a men's shop in Beverly Hills. Mornings are spent writing the story, "My Life With Auntie Mame."

* * *

Jack Palance has been working on one play for three years, and, after his current role in "The Man Inside," he'll take off for Switzerland to finish the story based on his own experiences as a prize fighter. Jack won 18 out of 20 ring battles. Of course, he will star in his brain child.

* * *

Stop the presses! Zsa Zsa Gabor plans to join the Actor's Studio in New York, famed for its "natural" style of acting. I thought Zsa has always done what comes naturally.

Frank Sinatra was so anxious to get Natalie Wood for his last movie that he gave himself in exchange to Warners for one picture.

Mario Pavan has an album of French songs which Capitol will release soon. Her first attempt at singing.

* * *

Sir Cedric Hardwicke and actress-wife Mary Scott will tour the eastern straw-hat theatres.

* * *

Gene Autry has installed a huge diesel model train on his movie ranch, and will throw the place open to the public on weekends.

Cecil B. De Mille was to leave the hospital last weekend. C.B. is finding it hard to take orders—he has been giving them for 44 years.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 N.T.	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	All Pass

Opening lead: ◊ K

At first blush, the natural opening bid with South's hand seems to be one spade, but a one-spade opening leaves South with a problem rebid if North responds one no-trump. So despite the good five-card suit, one no-trump is the better choice with balanced hands including 16 or 17 points in high cards. (With 18 in high cards, a double-ton would make the hand worth 19, so the five-card suit must be bid.)

North's two-club response was Stayman, asking the opener to show a four-card major. South's jump to three spades was intended to show that he held not four spades but five. In this instance, the bid had a dual purpose: South wanted to stay out of no-trump unless North was well heeled in diamonds. Hence, he encouraged a raise even if North chanced to hold only three spades.

This is the kind of deal that causes the inept declarer to call himself unlucky. East overtook his partner's king of diamonds and returned the eight. West won and led a third diamond. Now declarer had a three-to-one shot at making game. He ruffs the third diamond with the ten and makes contract if East can't overruff. And even if East does overruff with the jack, South makes his contract if the club finesse succeeds.

Admittedly, it's hard luck that both chances lose, but the deficiency isn't only in South's luck. He is also a failure at mathematics, for he has a 100 per cent sure thing if, instead of trumping the third diamond he discards one of dummy's clubs. Then, after trumps were drawn, instead of taking a club finesse, declarer trumps his third club in dummy, overcoming hard luck with hard sense.

Ferry Lineups

Traffic Crowds Sidney

SIDNEY — Ferry traffic through here reached unprecedented heights in June, and the pace is continuing in July.

During June, a total of 7,349 cars and 24,920 passengers passed through the port, compared with 4,112 cars and 13,883 passengers in June, 1957.

In spite of the increase, attributed partly to the CPR seamen's strike, few cars have been turned away.

Exception was Sunday, when the morning ferry line-up was filled more than three hours before sailing time. The same situation prevailed for the evening sailing. Service on Sundays is only two round-trips, compared with three during the week.

More than 100 cars were turned away during the day.

Dozens Turned Away

Hundreds Of Yachts Come In

SIDNEY — All records were broken here on July 4, when 213 yachts and other small craft were serviced by customs.

Crush at Sidney's single, 160-foot-long float was so great that 39 of the boats were directed to Canoe Cove, requiring a four-mile trip by customs officers to board the craft.

Increase over the 51 boats handled on the Independence Day holiday last year is attributed both to the rising number of small craft, and the fact that this year the holiday gave Americans a long weekend.

Small boat traffic has shown a steady increase over last year. During June, 157 vessels called at Sidney, compared with 112 in June, 1957.
